HAVE LOST TO

AIDS

AIDS-related Deaths in Metropolitan DC as recorded in the press

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) records 14,882 AIDS cases in the District of Columbia since 1981. Of these, 7,729 persons have died (as of 12/31/2000). African-Americans account for 76.3% of local AIDS cases; Caucasians account for 20.1% and Hispanics for 3%. In new cases in 2002 (the latest year for which statistics are available) 71% of new cases occurred in men.

With AIDS-related deaths in the metropolitan DC collar counties (Montgomery and Prince Georges in Maryland, Arlington and Fairfax in Virginia, as well as Alexandria, Virginia) there may well be upwards of 10,000 AIDS-related deaths in the metro area to date.

However, not all AIDS-related deaths are reported as in the press or funeral programs. Next of kin may not acknowledge or wish to acknowledge HIV/AIDS as the cause of death. Under health information privacy and protection regulations, we can only list here those whose cause of death has been published in the press, funeral programs, or other notices. Consequently, the names listed hereafter are only a small percentage (perhaps 30%) of the actual losses.
